Mystical Bali 2010

Day 9 ~ Springs of Immortality Ritual At Tirta Empul ~ Artist Village Walk

Saturday May 8th

This AM we will visit at Tirta Empul sacred bathing pools where you may dip in what the Balinese consider the waters of immortality for a purification ritual.

An inscription date found at the temple site goes back to 926 AD. For more than a thousand years the Balinese have come to bathe in the sacred waters for healing and spiritual rejuvenation.

Back in Ubud for lunch at Murnie's warong, set on the side of the jungle with splendid views and excellent food and surround by some of Ubud's finest art galleries. Afterward there will be a walk through the artist village and jungle to the picturesque Agung River for a refreshing dip and an unforgettable view of the famous Rice Terraces of Sayan.

Day 10 ~ Dance Workshop with Sang Ayu and PM Temple Ceremony

Sunday May 9th

Balinese Dance workshop with Sang Ayu

This morning we will meet one of Bali's most renowned dance teachers, still teaching at 90 years of age. We will learn the secrets of her longevity as she shows us the fundamentals of the graceful hand movements and postures. Her number one Western student for the last 25 years, Barbara Mintz, will be assisting her. She, too is a master teacher of dance in Ubud today. Visit her web site at www.rightangle.com/bhava.

Tonight is the Odalan Temple Ceremony at Sukawati there will be a large and colorful procession from the village to the temple. There the High Priest will bless you with special holy water as the shaman chant verses of the Mahabrata. Temple gear required.

Day 11 ~ Prayer Circle and Feast

Monday May 10th

Today there will be plenty of free time to shop for last minute gifts at the Ubud Bazar and art market or relax with a massage treatment. Tonight we will have our last night feast and prayer circle with Rev. Karen and all our new Balinese friends. A joyous climax to a transformational journey.
